The Daughters of Charity

In 1856, the Daughters of Charity answered a call guided by faith, courage, and boundless love. With only seven children in their care, they planted the seeds of what would become a 170-year legacy of service.

Today, we honor these visionary women whose compassion created a sanctuary for generations. Their spirit lives on in every child uplifted, every family restored, and every future reimagined. As we celebrate this extraordinary legacy, we invite you to join us in reaffirming the belief that every child deserves a life filled with hope.

About Maryvale

That founding spirit is alive today as Maryvale, Los Angeles County's oldest children's charity, has grown into a place of healing and hope for vulnerable children and families across the San Gabriel Valley.

Through early childhood education, mental health services, and housing support for women and children, we meet families where they are. At our campuses in Rosemead, Duarte, and South El Monte, we nurture young minds, restore well-being, strengthen families, and provide refuge for those who need it most. Proceeds from the Gala make our work possible.
